

Profile of K.N. Murali Sankar

Born in Palagummi village of East Godavari district on July 29, 1978

After pursuing graduation in Commerce from Andhra University and Postgraduate diploma in Journalism from the Bharatiya Vidya Bhavan, Hyderabad and joined as Reporter in Hyderabad-based news agency News and Services Syndicate (NSS) in the year 2000.

Joined 'The New Indian Express' as a political reporter in 2002 and covered several developments such as the 'Padayatra' undertaken by the late Y.S. Rajasekhara Reddy and the 'Alipiri' attack on N. Chandrababu Naidu.

After working with the Express's Hyderabad, Tirupati and Vijayawada editions, got an opportunity to work with 'The Hindu,' Vijayawada, in 2005.

Transferred to Kakinada in June 2010 as a senior reporter and presently working with The Hindu as Principal Correspondent.

Pursued Master's in English literature, Journalism and Mass Communications, Human Resource Management and Telugu literature.

Filed detailed news reports and special stories on natural calamities including the Tsunami, floods in the Krishna and Godavari rivers and several major cyclones in the last 17 years.

End